

WORCESTER PAINTER BOOKS DATES FOR WORLD SHOWING

EVOCATIVE landscapes painted by a Worcester man could soon be hanging on walls all over the world.

The paintings by city-based artist Paul Powis feature in a new 2007 calendar.

The calendar, being published by one of the world's leading publishers Brown Trout of California, features landscapes from Worcestershire, Spain and Australia and is on sale in a number of high street shops.

Mr Powis, seen right, who works in a studio in Battenhall Avenue, Worcester, said he was delighted to get a calendar of his work published.

"My paintings are increasingly popular in America and Mexico where they really respond to the colour," he said.

"I am sure that having a calendar published will stimulate demand for original paintings also."

This year Mr Powis has been working abroad, organising exhibitions in Budapest and Venice. Exhibitions in Spain and the USA are being planned for next year, as are painting tuition courses here in the city.

The calendar is available to buy in shops now, but limited edition signed copies are available from Studio 74, in Battenhall Avenue, Worcester, telephone number 01905 357563.

Prints and originals are also on sale at the studio.
